

ABSTRACT

[0023] A preferred embodiment of an electrical connection employs a stud having a patterned segment, a shoulder and a flange. In another aspect of the present invention, the shoulder has seven or more predominantly flat faces. In a
5 further aspect of the present invention, the shoulder has an octagonal cross sectional shape.

10075000.21